PREFACE

This report presents statistics on the number of inhabitants of the State, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the State. These data are based upon tabulations from the Seventeenth Decennial Census of the population of the United States, its Territories, and possessions conducted as of April 1, 1950. Provision for the Seventeenth Decennial Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth and subsequent decennial censuses which was approved on June 18, 1929.

The major portion of the information compiled from the Census of Population of 1950 will appear in Volume I, Number of Inhabitants, and in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. This report is a preprint of Chapter 27 (Nebraska) of Volume I, which is to present, in a single publication, statistics on the number of inhabitants for each State.

The materials presented here will also appear as Chapter A of Part 27 (Nebraska) of Volume II. Volume II will comprise a series of separately published parts, one for each State and a summary for the United States. The use of separate parts makes the basic materials on characteristics of the population for a given State available to the public in a single publication. Within the part for a State, Chapter A will recapitulate the statistics on the number and distribution of the population within a State; Chapter B will present statistics on the general characteristics of the population of the various political subdivisions of the State, such as counties, incorporated places, and the like; and Chapter C will present data on the detailed characteristics of the population of the larger areas within the State, such as cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more and standard metropolitan areas.

The materials presented here were prepared under the supervision of Howard G. Brunsman, Chief, Population and Housing Division, and Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Assistant Chief for Population Statistics, by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Chief, Demographic Statistics Section, and Charles P. Brinkman, Chief, Population Distribution Unit; the compilation of the statistics was under the direction of Robert B. Voight, Assistant Chief for Operations. The collection of the information on which these statistics are based was under the supervision of Lowell T. Galt, Chief, Field Division. The geographic work, including the delineation of special types of urban territory and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief, Geography Division.

Number of Inhabitants

The State.—Nebraska was organized as a Territory in 1854 from unorganized territory originally part of the Louisiana Purchase. Its boundaries included, in addition to the present area of the State, parts of the present States of North and South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, and Colorado. The area of the Territory was greatly reduced in 1861 by the organization of Dakota and Colorado Territories. At the same time a small area was added to the western part of the Territory. The area was again reduced in 1863 by the organization of Idaho Territory. Nebraska was admitted to the Union in 1867 as the thirty-seventh State with boundaries substantially as at present. In 1870 and 1882, small tracts of land were transferred from the Dakota Territory to Nebraska, and in 1943 small tracts of land were transferred between Iowa and Nebraska. Its population on April 1, 1950, according to the Seventeenth Census, was 1,325,510. The State has a land area of 76,663 square miles. In 1950 there was an average of 17.3 inhabitants per square mile as compared with an average of 17.2 in 1940. Among the States, Nebraska ranked thirty-third in population and fourteenth in land area.

In 1860, the first year in which the Territory was separately enumerated in a Federal census, Nebraska had a population of 28,841 (table 1). In 1950, 90 years later, the population of the State was about 46 times as large. The rate of population growth, which was very rapid in the early years, slackened after 1890. Thereafter, the rate of growth for Nebraska was consistently below that for the Nation as a whole. In the twentieth century, the rates of growth ranged from a loss of 4.5 percent between 1930 and 1940 to a gain of 11.8 percent between 1900 and 1910. The 1950 population was 9,676, or 0.7 percent, above the 1,315,834 persons enumerated in 1940.

Usual place of residence.—According to usual Census practice, which dates back to 1790, each person enumerated in the 1950 Census was counted as an inhabitant of his usual place of residence or usual place of abode, which is generally construed to mean the place where he lives and sleeps most of the time. This place is not necessarily the same as his legal residence, voting residence, or domicile, although, in the vast majority of cases, these different bases of classification would be identical.

In the application of this rule, persons were not always counted as residents of the places in which they happened to be found by the census enumerators. Persons in places where guests usually pay for quarters (hotels, etc.) were enumerated on the night of April 11, and those whose usual place of residence was elsewhere were allocated to their homes. Visitors found staying in private homes, however, were not ordinarily interviewed there. Information on persons away from their usual place of residence was obtained from other members of their families, landlords, etc. If an entire family was expected to be away during the whole period of the enumeration, information on it was obtained from neighbors. A matching process was used to eliminate duplicate reports for persons who reported for themselves while away and were also reported by their families at home.

Persons in the armed forces quartered on military installations were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their installations were located. Members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided.

In the 1950 Census, college students living away from home were considered residents of the communities in which they were residing while attending college, rather than as persons temporarily absent from their parental homes as was the practice in 1940. In 1950 the crews of vessels of the American Merchant Marine in harbors of the United States were counted as part of the population of the ports in which their vessels were berthed on April 1, 1950. In 1940 such persons were treated as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. Inmates of institutions, who ordinarily live there for long periods of time, were counted as inhabitants of the place in which the institution was located; whereas patients in general hospitals, who ordinarily have short stays, were counted at, or allocated to, their homes. All persons without a usual place of residence were counted where they were enumerated.

Urban and rural population.—The 1950 urban population of Nebraska comprised 621,905 persons, or 46.9 percent of the population of the State (table 1). The urban population was living in the 41 urban places in the State and in other territory included in the urban fringe of Lincoln and the Nebraska parts of the urban fringes of Omaha and Sioux City, Iowa. Nearly three-fifths of the urban population was living in urbanized areas (table 2).

The 1950 rural population of Nebraska numbered 703,605 persons, or 53.1 percent of the population of the State (table 1). Of the rural population, 112,494 persons, or 16.0 percent, were living in the 73 incorporated places and 2 unincorporated places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants (table 2).

Urban definition.—Under the urban definition established for use in the 1950 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns,¹ and villages; (b) the densely settled urban fringe, including both incorporated and unincorporated areas, around cities of 50,000 or more; and (c) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside any urban fringe. The remaining population is classified as rural. According to the urban definition used in previous censuses, the urban population comprised all persons living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and areas (usually minor civil divisions) classified as urban under special rules relating to population size and density.

In both definitions, the most important component of the urban territory is the group of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more. A definition of urban territory restricted to such places, however, would exclude a number of equally large and densely settled places, merely because they were not incorporated places. Under the old definition, an effort was made to avoid some of the more obvious omissions by the inclusion of the places urban under special rules. Even with these rules, however, many large and closely built-up places were excluded from the urban territory. To improve the situation in the 1950 Census, the Bureau of the Census set up, in advance of enumeration, boundaries for urban-fringe areas around cities of 50,000 or more and for unincorporated places outside urban fringes. All the population residing in urban-fringe areas and in unincorporated places of 2,500 or more is classified as urban according to the 1950 definition. (Of course, the incorporated places of 2,500 or more are urban in their own right.) Consequently, the special rules of the old definition are no longer necessary.

According to the 1950 urban definition, the urban population of Nebraska included the following components: (1) The 606,530 inhabitants of the 40 incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more; (2) the 2,717 inhabitants of Hunkerville, the only specially delineated unincorporated place of 2,500 inhabitants or more; and (3) the 12,658 persons living outside of incorporated urban places in the urban fringe of Lincoln and the Nebraska parts of the urban fringes of Omaha and Sioux City, Iowa. Since there were no places urban under special rule according to the old definition, the population of the first element comprised the urban population under the old definition. The population of the remaining elements—15,375—represents the gain in the urban population which resulted from the change in definition.

Although the Bureau of the Census has employed other definitions in the course of its history, the statistics on the population by urban and rural residence for the years 1860 to 1940 are shown in accordance with the old definition. The 1950 statistics are shown in accordance with both the new and old definitions.

Trends of urban and rural population.—Trends in the urban and rural population can be examined only on the basis of the old definition. On this basis, the urban population of Nebraska rose from 252,702 in 1900 to 606,530 in 1950 (table 1). Both the largest numerical increase and the most rapid rate of growth in the urban population over the 50-year period came in the decade 1910 to 1920. The gain of 92,382 between 1940 and 1950 represented an increase of 18.0 percent over the 514,148 persons enumerated as living in urban territory in 1940. All 10 of the cities of 10,000 inhabitants or more in the State participated in the growth of the urban population between 1940 and 1950, with the rates of increase ranging from 6.6 percent for Scottsbluff to 33.4 percent for Hastings (table 4). The proportion of the population of Nebraska living in urban territory nearly doubled between 1900 and 1950, increasing from 23.7 to 45.8 percent.

Declines in the rural population in the 20-year period ending in 1950 more than offset the gain over the previous 30 years, with the result that the rural population declined from 813,598 in 1900 to 718,980 in 1950 (table 1). The decline between 1940 and 1950 was 82,706, or 10.3 percent, as compared with a decline of 90,170, or 10.1 percent, for the previous decade. The proportion of the population of Nebraska living in rural territory declined from 76.3 percent in 1900 to 54.2 percent in 1950.

Counties.—The counties in Nebraska ranged in size from Arthur with a population of 803 to Douglas with a population of 281,020 (table 5). Between 1940 and 1950, 19 of the 93 counties in Nebraska increased in population. Only 7 of the counties with increases were among the 16 which had had increases in the previous decade. As in the previous decade, Douglas County, the most populous county in the State, had the largest numerical increase. The most rapid rate of increase, 44.8 percent, was experienced in Sarpy County.

Minor civil divisions.—To the primary political divisions into which counties are divided, the Bureau of the Census applies the general term "minor civil divisions." The minor civil divisions in Nebraska are the townships, election precincts, and some of the cities and villages. The remaining cities and villages form subdivisions of the minor civil divisions in which they are located.

Table 6 shows statistics on the population of each county by minor civil divisions. The population of each incorporated place which does not form a minor civil division itself and of each unincorporated place is shown in italics under the population of the minor civil division in which it is located. When an incorporated place of this type or an unincorporated place lies in two or more minor civil divisions, the population of the several parts is shown in table 6 in the appropriate counties and minor civil divisions, and each part is designated by "part." Figures on the total population of such places are given in table 7. Unincorporated places are designated by "uninc." Changes between the 1940 Census and 1950 Census in the boundaries of the areas listed are shown in notes to table 6. For changes in boundaries prior to the 1940 Census, see reports of the Sixteenth Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 637-645, and reports of earlier censuses.

Incorporated and unincorporated places.—In 1950 Nebraska had 534 places incorporated as cities and villages and 3 unincorporated places of 1,000 or more. There were 856,680 persons living in the incorporated places, 250,150 of whom were in the 494 places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants. There were 5,941 persons living in the unincorporated places, 3,224 of whom were in the two places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants. The incorporated places ranged in size from Nenzel village with a population of 24 to Omaha city with a population of 251,117.

Political units recognized as incorporated places in the 1950 Census are those which are incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages, with the exception that towns are not recognized as incorporated places in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin.

The Bureau of the Census has delineated boundaries for the thickly settled urban fringe around cities of 50,000 or more and has also delineated boundaries for unincorporated places of 1,000 or more which are densely settled population centers without corporate limits. Although there are unincorporated places within the urban fringe, it was not feasible to establish boundaries for such places and therefore they are not identified as separate places.

The count of urban places in the 1950 Census includes all incorporated places of 2,500 or more regardless of location and unincorporated places of 2,500 or more which are located outside the urban-fringe areas. Incorporated places of less than 2,500 which lie in the urban fringe are not recognized as urban places.

Urbanized areas.—The Lincoln Urbanized Area, which had a population of 99,509, is entirely in Nebraska. The Nebraska parts of the Omaha and Sioux City, Iowa, Urbanized Areas had 263,150 and 5,557 inhabitants, respectively. Of the 368,216 persons in the State living in urbanized areas, 350,001 were in the two central cities, Lincoln and Omaha, and 18,215 in the urban fringes. The population of the urban fringes included 6,857 persons in two incorporated places and 11,358 in the unincorporated parts (tables 2 and 9).

Each urbanized area contains at least one city with 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1940 or according to a special census taken since 1940, and some urbanized areas contain two or more cities of 50,000. Each urbanized area also includes the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet the criteria listed in the section below on "Urban fringe." Thus, the territory of an urbanized area may be classified into incorporated parts and unincorporated parts. (See urbanized area maps.)

An urbanized area may also be divided into central city or cities and urban fringe as defined below.

Central cities.—Although an urbanized area may contain more than one city of 50,000 or more, not all cities of this size are necessarily central cities. The largest city of an area is always a central city. In addition, the second and third most populous cities in the area may qualify as central cities provided they have a population of at least one-third of that of the largest city in the area and a minimum of 25,000 inhabitants. The names of the individual urbanized areas indicate the central cities of the areas.

Urban fringe.—The urban fringe includes that part of the urbanized area which is outside the central city or cities. The following types of areas are embraced if they are contiguous to the central city or cities or if they are contiguous to any area already included in the urban fringe.

1. Incorporated places with 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1940 or at a subsequent special census conducted prior to 1950.

2. Incorporated places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants containing an area with a concentration of 100 dwelling units or more with a density in this concentration of 500 units or more per square mile. This density represents approximately 2,000 persons per square mile and normally is the minimum found associated with a closely spaced street pattern.

3. Unincorporated territory with at least 500 dwelling units per square mile.

4. Territory devoted to commercial, industrial, transportation, recreational, and other purposes functionally related to the central city.

Also included are outlying noncontiguous areas with the required dwelling unit density located within 1½ miles of the main contiguous urbanized part, measured along the shortest connecting highway, and other outlying areas within one-half mile of such noncontiguous areas which meet the minimum residential density rule.

² Parts of Otoe and Sarpy Counties acquired by Iowa and part of Iowa acquired by Burt County in 1943.

³ Includes 12,638 persons in urban territory outside of urban places.

⁴ Exclusive of population of areas taken to form parts of Colorado and Dakota Territories in 1861, but inclusive of population of area taken to form part of Idaho Territory in 1863.
